Pastor's Thought for the Sabbath

Last Wednesday, William and I took a trip to Bozeman. We stopped by at the conference office to pick up some Bible study guides and we also had lunch together. We went to Costco because I was planning to get TVs for the churches and bring it back with me. However, it turned out that they didn't have the TVs we needed in stock, so we had to return home empty-handed.

When I thought about this trip, I felt it was a waste of time—but in fact it wasn't. William and I had a great time together. We grew in our bond, and we had a wonderful time as father and son. Although we might not have gotten what we had gone to town for, there was an unexpected experience we didn't anticipate.

Sometimes we were hoping for something we were planning, but we miss what happens in the moment. It's okay to experience disappointment. It's okay to face your reality. Things might be out of your control, but we have a God who is in control. We have a God who loves to be with us! Let's turn our hearts to Him, though we may be disappointed in what we don't have. When we have Him, our heart will be at peace.

Bulletin information. Please give information to Emily Khut by Wednesday evening, at buttesdabulletin@gmail.com or 509-240-0048.
